MISSION AND CULTURE

1

To supply and service State-of-the-art Technology Solutions to long term Corporate and Public Sector customers.

The culture underlying our mission has developed over many years of supplying the technology needs of long-term Corporate and Public Sector customers

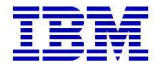

This is much more than the supply of hardware, software, infrastructure and services – it demands an ability to find and supply the unfindable; to deliver after deliveries have closed; to provide service when others refuse to. It involves close co-operation with the customer, and a very high degree of technical skill and industry knowledge. And it involves the deepest commitment

All of this is not simply words, but is a deliberate and fundamental strategy of the Company. ModernWorks believes very deeply that our culture is the main differentiator between ourselves and our competitors. Many others can and do supply similar products. Many others can and do supply similar services. Many others have a high level of technical skills. But ModernWorks has all of those PLUS our unique culture of customer satisfaction – this is what makes the difference.
